Healthcare Support Worker

Kick start an exciting new career in the NHS –
no experience needed

The Clatterbridge
Cancer Centre
NHS Foundation Trust

Are you looking for your first job or want to kick start a new career in the NHS?

The Clatterbridge Cancer Centre has an amazing opportunity for new Healthcare Support Workers to join our team, no previous experience is required.

We are looking for people with the right values and attitude to take on a role that is rewarding, varied and flexible. No previous healthcare experience is required. Skills you have gained in your previous roles will be transferrable and on the job training will be provided, complimented with a robust training programme.

Our Healthcare Support Workers provide a vital role in ensuring our patients receive high standards of care and compassion.

Entry requirement is to have compassion to care, be non-judgemental and have empathy. No previous NHS experience is needed.

We will support you, mentor you and train you to get your qualifications. It's the perfect starting point to develop your career.

There will be a range of shifts available across our different areas. We are fully supportive of creating a work/life balance and offer a range of day/night or weekday/weekend shifts to fit in with family commitments.

This is a really exciting time to join our Trust. We have opened our new hospital – Clatterbridge Cancer Centre – Liverpool, bringing the opportunity to work alongside some of the country's most specialist staff in state-of-the-art facilities.

Meet Eliesha

Eliesha Cass, 30, works as a Healthcare Support Worker on the Chemotherapy Unit at Clatterbridge Cancer Centre – Liverpool.

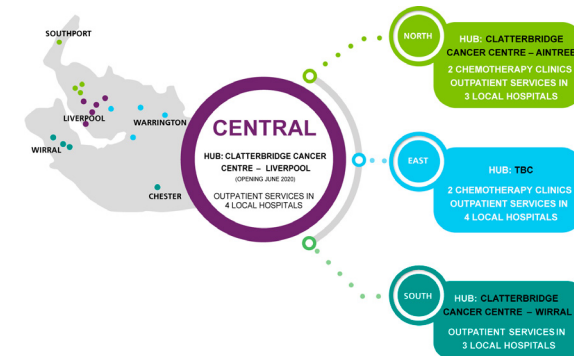

Describing her job as “the best job she’s ever had”, she loves the fact she gets to learn new skills every day by working alongside nurses, consultants and pharmacists.

Working as a Healthcare Support Worker in a cancer centre is such a specialist role that offers more clinical responsibility and training. The role is really inclusive so you are always developing your skills which will help with career progression. Eliesha’s daily tasks include observations, Peripheral IV line dressings and care, phlebotomy, clerical duties, and of course, chatting with patients and making sure they are comfortable.

Eliesha who lives in Kirby, started working at the Trust in November 2019, she said: “The role is really patient-focused, which I love. You get to see them right through their journey; from pre-assessment to end of treatment when they get to ring the bell – which is just fabulous.

“The team know every patient by name and they strive for excellence every single day. I actually get goose bumps watching how committed my colleagues are in their job. Their dedication is inspiring and I am really proud to work here.

“It is a fantastic place to work and I am really looking forward to developing my healthcare career at Clatterbridge.”

The Clatterbridge Cancer Centre is one of three specialist cancer centres in England. With over 1,500 staff spread across three main sites and a sector hub model, we are one of the largest NHS providers of non-surgical cancer treatment.

At our main hub, Clatterbridge Cancer Centre – Liverpool, we deliver a wide range of highly-specialist care including pioneering chemotherapy, immunotherapy, bone marrow transplant, gene therapy and radiotherapy. The services also include diagnostics and imaging, outpatients, daycase treatments, a Teenage & Young Adult Unit. On our inpatient wards we have 110 fully-single en-suite rooms.

The Trust prides itself on having the right people, with the right skills in the right job, and we are ready to provide the support and training for those wanting a new career in the NHS.
